CITY OF SIENA
IS BAGGED ON ITALIAN FRONTFIGHTING CLOSES IN
ON PRIZE PORT
OF LEGHORN

BY JOHN F. CHESTER
Rome, July 3 (AP)—American and French forces occupied the medieval city of Siena, 31 airline miles from Florence, early today without damage to its famous art and architectural treasures, while Yank troops on the west coast evicted the Nazis from Cecina in bitter house-to-house fighting and thrust on within 15 miles of the prize port of Livorno (Leghorn).

The quick and virtually unopposed capture of Siena by French infantry and American artillery and tank units followed weeks of hard fighting on its mountainous approaches. A special announcement of the city's fall came immediately after a communique said the French had fought to within two miles of its ancient walls.

Cathedral Is Showplace
Siena is rivalled only by Florence in the wealth of its renaissance art. Its black and white marble gothic Cathedral is regarded as one of the world's most beautiful structures.

American units stormed past Cecina despite some of the most stubborn German resistance since the fall of Rome.

"Exceptionally heavy street fighting occurred, which caused us, as well as the enemy, considerable casualties, and we lost a number of armored vehicles in the engagement," an Allied spokesman said.

"Cecina itself was taken only after the most vicious opposition. The enemy mined and booby-trapped the town, and resisted from house to house."

It was believed today that Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army vanguard was within 20 miles of the Nazis' vaunted gothic defense line running from Pisa, just above Livorno, to Rimini on the Adriatic coast.

Eighth Army Scores
The Allied advance was a general one clear across the peninsula, with the British Eighth Army getting in some hard knocks. South African troops almost completed the encirclement of Lake Trasimeno in the center of the line and pushed on within 15 miles of the important city of Arezzo north of the lake.

Allied medium bombers and fighters ranged over the battle area in great numbers and spread a pattern of explosives over northern Italy. A check today showed that 57 enemy planes were shot out of the skies over Italy and the Balkans yesterday at a cost of 15 American heavy bombers and eight other craft.

Movie Closed When
Owner Is Deprived
Of Gasoline Stamps

Midland, Mich., July 3 (AP)—Midland's only movie house was operating again today with Proprietor William A. Cassidy having reconsidered his decision to close in protest over loss of his "A" gasoline coupons.

Cassidy had closed the theater Saturday after the gasoline panel of the Office of Price Administration here had revoked his coupons because of an "unauthorized" automobile trip to Florida. He reopened Sunday, however.

Cassidy said he had been advised by his physician to make the trip.

Coy Japs Disappoint
Skipper of U.S. Fleet

Associated Press Correspondent

Aboard Flagship U. S. Fifth Fleet In The Pacific, June 24 (Delayed) (AP)—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, skipper of the U. S. Fifth fleet, is anything but pleased with the result of a week of maneuvering between his armada and major elements of Japan's navy between the Marianas and the Philippines.

The admiral is disappointed because the result was not decisive.

The fleet commander said today "airplanes can do a great deal of damage but they are not decisive. To gain a decisive result we will still have to catch the Japanese fleet with ships some day."

One definite result of the air-sea battle of June 15-19 was destruction of Japan's carrier fleet in this area. It was destroyed in less than 12 hours of the first day of conflict. The Japanese lost 402 planes and the U. S. 27.

Nippon will be able to replace the planes but the carrier pilots are something else again. Almost 100 percent of the Japanese army aboard the 402 planes were lost and for Japan that fact may be critical. Already known to be short of pilots of all kinds, Nippon quite likely is especially short of carrier fliers.

With 402 of their carrier planes destroyed and 17 of their surface ships, including five carriers, sunk or damaged, the Japanese fleet avoided a tangle with Spruance's powerful Fifth fleet and fled westward in the direction of the Philippines and Formosa.

For months some prophets have declared that sooner or later the Japanese navy would come out to fight—whenever it found the

FUEHRER'S GAS
SUPPLY IS CUTAircraft Fuel Output Is Trimmed Two-Thirds By Allied Bombings

BY WILLIAM FRYE
Washington, July 3 (AP)—German aircraft and gasoline production both have been cut at least two-thirds by Allied bombing, General H. H. Arnold reported today, virtually eliminating the Luftwaffe and forcing the Nazi high command to ration the military use of fuel.

Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces and recent visitor to the battle fronts in Normandy and Italy, said there is evidence the Germans now are using their reserve gasoline supplies. The Allies in France, he said, have found tanks and other vehicles abandoned for lack of fuel.

The clearest proof of the effectiveness of the bomber offensive against Germany, said Arnold, was the Luftwaffe's failure to muster enough bomber or fighter strength to hit the congested English ports, the thousands of ships in the channel, and the swarming beachheads at the time of the invasion.

"Here was a target the like of which no aviator had ever seen before," he said. "It was an aviator's dream."

U. S. fleet far enough from home and conditions right.

During the last week the Spruance fleet was almost as far from home as it will ever be. The maneuvering area of the air-sea battle was well west of Tokyo and within 500 miles of the Philippines.

The American fleet was hampered by various things—first, by having to guard the landing in Saipan island; second, by being far from fueling bases; third, tactical disadvantage in regard to wind; fourth, the Japanese knew exactly where it was while the Americans could only deduce the general location of the Nipponese most of the time.

The Japanese came out and made one bold strike—by air. That turned into a fiasco and the Japanese fleet turned tail for home.

The proposition that the Japanese fleet will ever fight now until forced to do it by having its back up against home beaches will take some proving.

ROCKET BOMBS
SPREAD HAVOCHitler's Spite Weapon
Claims Americans
As Victims

BY TOM YARBROUGH
London, July 3 (AP)—Another deadly parade of flying bombs droned over southern England tonight and an undisclosed number of American soldiers were among the day's victims of the Nazi spite weapon.

Fighter pilots chasing the robots were given credit for shooting down a "high proportion" of them but nevertheless a number got through. Two pilots in the same squadron each shot down three in a single patrol.

In some places civil defense services were getting workouts reminiscent of the days of the heavy German bombings of England and there were long hours on "alert."

American soldiers everywhere have been winning British tribute for the way they have pitched in and helped whenever an "incident" occurs near them.

Victims of the flying rockets were disclosed today to have included Maj. Gen. Sir Arthur Scott, retired, his wife, Almee Byng, a novelist, and Sir Percy Alden, lecturer and social worker.

There is much about the flying rocket campaign that can't yet be told but many hope Prime Minister Winston Churchill will disclose at least some of it tomorrow in a report to commons.

A speaker on a German radio claimed the flying bombs were as accurate as the orthodox bombs dropped from a height of five miles.

ENEMY LINES
IN CHERBOURG
AREA CRACKEDAMERICANS ADVANCE
THREE MILES IN RAIN AND MUD

BY JAMES M. LONG
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, July 4 (AP)—U. S. troops exploded an offensive yesterday along a 40-mile front on the lower Cherbourg peninsula and in rain and mud drove as far as three miles into stout German defenses which Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had inspected himself two months ago and considered adequate.

An artillery barrage plowed the German lines, and then the doughboys went over the top in a scene reminiscent of the first World War, pushing through mire that bogged down their tanks to within three miles of La Haye Du Puits, highway hub six miles inland from the Atlantic coast.

Resistance Tough
Doughboys fought from hedge to hedge against machine-gun, snipe and mortar fire, and in the first surge captured more than 100 prisoners, front line dispatches said.

They pressed ahead 2½ miles at one point and captured St. Jores, five miles east of La Haye, posing an outflanking threat to that communications center.

While some Poles, probably forced to fight for the Germans, were among the first captives to come back from the front, the troops of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley before long had struck a tough line of all-German resistance. Some of the Germans were from the Russian front.

The Americans fought through some enemy positions which, French patriots said, had been inspected by Rommel, the German field commander, who expressed pleasure at their strength and strategic locations.

The supreme headquarters communique reported that the French resistance forces also lacked food and medical supplies and that the members were dying from slight wounds.

Reports reaching Port Ben in Spain said Gen. Georges Nadal, chief of Vichy pro-German militia in western France, was captured by the Maquis Saturday night as he was enroute from La Rochelle to Cognac to attend a German banquet. Scores of persons were reported to have been arrested and held as hostages for the general's safety.

Danish workers' demonstrations and strikes against the Germans spread from Copenhagen to 20 other towns, including Aarhus in Jutland, the country's second largest city, despite appeal by the German-controlled Danish radio for a return to work.

No Air Support
For once the Americans going over to the offensive were deprived of heavy air support, supreme headquarters saying bad weather had reduced aerial operations.

Some of the heaviest fighting was reported between two stretches of marshland. The enemy had studded the narrow neck of dry land with machine-gun posts.

The Americans overran these positions, some wading through the bog up to their chests in water, with guns held over their heads.

War Bond Sales

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Sales through Saturday in the $16,000,000 Fifth War Loan drive totaled $14,685,000, or 92 per cent of the goal, the treasury announced today.

Sales to corporations and other non-banking investors reached $11,078,000, 111 per cent of the quota for these investors.

Sales to individuals, lagging, totaled $3,607,000, only 60 per cent of the quota. The drive is scheduled to end July 8.

Flying by way of Africa, the war secretary was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, the army's director of public relations; Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general, and Harvey H. Rund, special assistant. The plane was piloted by Col. T. R. Kreps.

In Normandy, (by wireless)—American anti-aircraft gunners began playing their important part in the battle of Normandy right on D-Day and shortly after H-Hour.

Ordinarily you wouldn't think of anti-aircraft coming ashore with the infantry, but a little bit of everything came ashore on that memorable day—from riflemen to press censors, from combat engineers to chaplains—and every body had a hand in it.

Like David and Goliath

When I started rounding up material for this ack-ack series I ran onto the story of one crew of ack-ackers who had knocked out a German 88 deeply ensconced in a thick concrete emplacement—and did it with a tiny 37-MM gun, which is somewhat akin to David slaying Goliath.

So I hunted up this crew to see how they did it. By that time they had moved several miles inland. I found them at the edge of a

Yank Troops Land
On Noemfoor Off
Dutch New Guinea

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Tuesday, July 4 (AP)—American troops under General Douglas MacArthur have landed at Noemfoor Island off Dutch New Guinea.

In a surprise attack Sunday Americans captured Kamiri air-drome against slight opposition. Landing craft threaded their way through dangerous reefs and caught the Japanese by surprise on the island's west coast.

Kamiri, one of three dromes on Noemfoor is 800 miles from the Philippines, closest approach to that sector yet made by the Allies.

Heavy naval and air bombardment preceded the Noemfoor landing.

Thirty partially damaged Japanese airplanes were captured on Kamiri strip without a struggle. MacArthur's Independence day communique announced today.

The communique also disclosed the capture of Maffin air-drome on the Dutch New Guinea mainland last Friday, thus expanding the Allied perimeter which has been established in the Sarmi-Maffin Bay area for several weeks.

Noemfoor Island, 15 miles long and 12 across, has been bombed recurrently during recent weeks, and over the week-end was shelled by P-T boats and given the heaviest bombing this sector has been for some time. One hundred and fifty airplanes dropped 230 tons of bombs there Saturday.

MacArthur declared that the new landing "will further dislocate enemy South Sea defenses already seriously shaken."

Southwest Pacific bombers meanwhile attacked Manokwari on the Dutch New Guinea mainland 50 miles west of Noemfoor, and other Japanese installations on Timor Island in the Dutch East Indies, Palau and Yap in the Carolines, Wewak, British New Guinea, and at Rabaul, New Britain, and Kavieng, New Ireland.

He said there scarcely was a region in France where fighting was not in progress and estimated that the French guerrillas were planning down about eight Nazi divisions that otherwise would be in action against the Allies in Normandy.

The French source said the Maquis—estimated to be 175,000 strong—needed Allied arms and tactical support, such as that being given Marshal Tito's forces in Yugoslavia, to reach their full degree of effectiveness. He said the French resistance forces also lacked food and medical supplies and that the members were dying from slight wounds.

Reports reaching Port Ben in Spain said Gen. Georges Nadal, chief of Vichy pro-German militia in western France, was captured by the Maquis Saturday night as he was enroute from La Rochelle to Cognac to attend a German banquet. The leathernecks held new ridge positions east of Garapan, from which they dominated the escape corridor to the north. American warships standing out at sea lobbed shells into the rubble of what once was a city of 10,000 population.

It appeared the showdown fight would come in the Tanapag area. A battlefront less than five miles wide was indicated. Into the northern neck of the island had been compressed the remainder of the Saipan garrison, once estimated at 20,000.

That force probably had been reduced to around 10,000 effectives through battle casualties. More than 6,000 enemy dead had been buried and 200 prisoners had been taken. The wounded must have numbered several thousand.

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, July 3 (AP)—A suicide force of Japanese saboteurs from the west has been wiped out in an attempt to seize the firmly held main airport south of the besieged Japanese bastion of Myitkyina in North Burma. Allied headquarters announced tonight.

The field was taken by Allied airborne troops at the outset of the attack against Myitkyina, and served as a base of operations against the enemy stronghold.

South of the field Chinese troops are firmly established on the Waingmaw ferry road, holding positions along a line which in the future may connect with the Lado route by way of Bhamo, about 75 miles to the south.

DEWEY WRITES
DOWN ON FARMRepublican Candidate To Prepare His Speeches
Over Week Ends

BY JACK BELL
Albany, July 3 (AP)—A "down-on-the-farm" summer campaign, with political and state business carried on in Albany and speech-writing done on week-ends at his 486-acre Pawling farm, was outlined tentatively today by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Strengthening reports that his strategists want to keep the Republican presidential nominee "under wraps" until after Labor day, Dewey told a news conference in his executive office today that he planned no major speeches in the next two months but "may have to travel in the next month," apparently to a campaign conference with other Republican Governors.

Dewey declined to answer questions about national policies. He gave correspondents, instead, a detailed account of the historical background of the Quaker Hill community at Pawling (pop. 1,446). Neighbors expect to hold a reception for him there Friday afternoon when he leaves Albany for a week-end.

Although Dewey at first said all he knew about a prospective huddle with other Republican governors was what he read in the newspapers, he later conceded that he had discussed the possibility of such a meeting with Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Madame Hjalmar Procopé, wife of the former Finnish minister who left the United States last month under state department orders, gave birth today to a nine-pound baby boy.

Mme. Procopé had stayed behind to await the arrival of the child, which is her third. Procopé likewise was given the opportunity to defer his departure, but decided to hurry back to Finland.

Procopé and three aides were asked to leave the country because of actions which the state department termed "unfriendly" to the interests of the United States.

The youngest Procopé, as the result of his birth here, could claim citizenship when he reached the age of 21. The Procopés, presumably will register the child with Finnish authorities, a formality that probably will have to await Mme. Procopé's return to Finland since there are no recognized Finnish authorities in this country. The registration, however, would not necessarily be binding on the boy.

GERMANS ARE MOWED DOWN
BY THOUSANDSRUSSIAN OFFENSIVE
GAINS 150 MILES
IN 11 DAYS

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
London, Tuesday, July 4 (AP)—Red troops captured the White Russian capital of Minsk yesterday, blasting the Germans out of their last major city on Soviet soil, and took more than 1,150 other places as the mighty summer offensive swept westward. Moscow announced last night.

The fall of Minsk to the storming advance of the first and third White Russian armies was the most spectacular coup of the 11-day old drive which already has carried as much as 150 miles on a 350-mile battlefront.

Defenders Trapped
But even as the great German bastion fell the broadcast Russian communique said other Soviet forces already had broken into Polotsk, 120 miles northeast of Minsk, and were fighting in the streets, and had reached the outskirts of Molodeczno, the strategic railway junction in old Poland 40 miles northwest of Minsk and 110 miles southwest of Polotsk.

Premier-Marshall Stalin personally announced the capture of Minsk, a city of nearly a quarter-million population in peacetime. No mention was made of the fate of the remnants of 17 German divisions—possibly as many as 200,000 men, including auxiliaries and service units—who were reported defending the city, but the Russian communique said the First and Third White Russian armies had captured 23,658 prisoners in the fighting Saturday and Sunday alone.

This brought to approximately 225,000 the number of German troops officially announced by the Russians as killed or captured since the gigantic offensive in White Russia began June 23.

Major Generals Captured
Among the captives taken over the week-end were two more German major generals, commanders of the 36th and 95th infantry divisions, said the bulletin recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

The Russians announced that besides taking Minsk their troops had advanced to the Molodeczno-Polotsk railway practically along its entire distance north of Wilejka, which was captured Sunday. The district center of Kurietz, five miles north of Wilejka, was one of the railway stations occupied on this line.

The southern flank of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian army, plunging rapidly toward the vital rail junction of Baranowicz (Baranovichi) in old Poland, took more than 250 communities including 15 large ones and four railway stations, the communique said.

The northward drive against the Finns was being maintained at full speed, it also was announced, and during the day Soviet forces captured more than 50 places, including railway stations on the line between Petrozavodsk and Sotavalta.

The new figures on prisoners taken over the week-end by the First and Third White Russian armies brought to 72,594 the number of captives taken by these two forces alone since their offensive got underway.

RECORD BROKEN BY LAKE FLEET

All Previous Marks For Bulk Cargo Traffic Are Smashed

Although final figures will not be compiled until late next week, it appears certain that the Great Lakes bulk cargo fleet for the third consecutive month this season has broken all previous records for movement of iron ore, coal and grain.

On the basis of figures given in the current issue of the BULLETIN of the Lake Carriers' Association, total cargoes of these essential war commodities for the season to July were estimated at about 59,000,000 net tons.

In the former record year of 1942 the total for the same period was 57,154,110 tons. Actual figures for the present season show:

ORE INCREASE HERE

Shipments of iron ore from the Escanaba docks totaled 2,250,628 on Friday, June 30, or about 125,000 tons more than for a corresponding period last year when the total movement was 2,124,978 tons.

A total of 55,360,184 net tons already delivered prior to the last week of navigation in June.

As to the separate commodities, "all records for April and May grain shipments were shattered, when 4,223,940 net tons were delivered by June 1," according to the Lake Carriers' BULLETIN. In the succeeding weeks 1,127,049 tons were added with the prospect that, at the existing rate of 375,000 tons weekly, the season's total on July 1 would set another "new high" in the neighborhood of 6,938,000 tons. Wheat, one of the less bulky grains, accounted for 557,436 tons during the first three weeks of the June movement.

Coal, as of June 26, had exceeded the tonnage moved during the entire month of June, 1942. The season's total by July 1, this year, was estimated at 20,500,000 tons, as compared with 17,006,199 tons for the same three months in the record year of 1942.

Iron ore was being brought down from the mines at an average rate of better than 450,000 net tons daily last week, bringing the season's total to an estimated 33,000,000 tons on July 1.

small open field far out in the country.

Their gun had been dug into the ground. Two men sat constantly in their bucket seats behind the gun, keeping watch on the sky even in the daytime. The others slept in their pup tents under the bushes, or just loafed around and brewed an occasional cup of coffee.

The commander of this gun is Sgt. Hyman Haas, of (1620 Ocean Ave.) Brooklyn. Sergeant Haas is an enthusiastic and flatteringly young man who was practically beside himself with delight when I showed up at their remote position, for he had read this column back in New York but hadn't supposed our trails would ever cross in an Army this big. When I told him I wanted to write a little about his crew he beamed and said:

"Oh boy! Wait till Flatbush Ave. hears about this!"

Their story is this:

They came ashore behind the first wave of infantry. A narrow valley leading away from the beach at that point was blocked by the German 88, which stopped everything in front of it. So Driver Bill Hendrix, from Shreveport, La., turned their half-track around and drove the front end back into the water so the gun would be pointing in the right direction.

Then the boys poured 23 rounds into the pillbox. Some of their shells hit the small gun slits and went inside. At the end of their firing, what Germans were left came out with their hands up.

The boys were very proud of their achievement, but I was kind of amused at their modesty, one of them said:

"The credit should go to Lieutenant Gibbs, because he gave us the order to fire."

The lieutenant is Wallace Gibbs, of RFD 2, Providence Road, Charlotte, N. C. The other members of the crew are Corp. John Jourdain, of New Orleans; Pvt. Frank Bartolomeo, of Ulevi, Pa.; Pvt. Joseph Sharpe, of Clover, S. C.; Pfc. Frank Furey, Brooklyn; Cpl. Austin Laurent Jr., of New Orleans; and Pvt. Raymond Bullock, of Coello, Ill.

Their gun is named "Blip," which represents the first letters of Brooklyn, Louisiana, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, where most of the crew come from.

Those Ack-Ack Guns
Our ack-ack on the Normandy Beachhead can be divided into three categories. First are the machine guns, both 50-caliber and 20-millimeter. Airplanes have to be fairly low for these to be effective.

The ack-ack branch has thousands of such guns, and so does every other fighting unit. When a low-flying strafe comes in everybody who has anything bigger than a rifle shoots at him, whether he is an ack-ack man or not.

The second big category of ack-ack is the Bofors. A 40-MM. long-barreled gun which can fire rapidly and with great accuracy at medium altitudes.

Our ack-ack is equipped with thousands of these, and although they can't see their targets at night they put a lot of shells into the sky anyhow.

The big gun, and the Elite, of our ack-ack is the 90-MM. This is for high-altitude shooting. It is the gun which keeps most of the planes away, and which has such a high score of planes shot down. I spent two days and nights with one of these crews and in the next two or three days I will try to tell you what life is like for them.

Has Fine Collection Of Souvenirs From Pacific War Theatre

A most interesting collection of souvenirs from the Southwest Pacific war theatre is possessed by Mrs. Richard Hammerschmidt, who with her 4-year-old daughter, Jan, resides at 1618 Fifth avenue south.

They were gathered and forwarded here by Capt. Richard Hammerschmidt who for the past two and one-half years has been in the south Pacific where he participated in four major engagements.

Capt. Hammerschmidt, a reserve officer, entered service before the war began. He trained at Camp Davis, S. C., and it was here that Mrs. Hammerschmidt and little Jan, then less than two years old, saw him last. He sailed on Feb. 1, 1942 for overseas on the Queen Mary, and since has served in Northern Australia, New Guinea, the D'Entrecasteaux Islands, Hollandia and Dutch New Guinea. He is a battery commander with the Anti-Aircraft Coast Artillery.

Many of the souvenirs came from the D'Entrecasteaux Islands where the Yanks were the first white persons to ever set foot.

Among them are a small hand made canoe with outrigger, a miniature of those used by the natives; an image of a woman, a long oval dish and knife, all hand-carved from a wood resembling mahogany; a beetle nut masher used by natives in preparing the nuts from which they obtain a cheap jag; another is a gourd which natives fill with wine juice into which members of a family dip straws which they withdraw and lick, repeating the operation until the receptacle is empty; a cockatoo flower, fashioned from the beautiful feathers of a tropical bird, upon the instruction of the missionaries; sea shells of all types, descriptions and sizes and three beautiful specimens of unmounted opals, the white, blue and fire.

There is also a grass skirt of the type worn by native women of the island. Not self conscious in the least, the native girls would sell the skirts they were wearing the Yanks found. The commanding officer also found out about the practice and placed a ban upon it. Then quick to grasp the situation, the women adopted the practice of wearing a half dozen skirts at a time and they would proceed to sell all but one.

From Australia came a beautiful soft white natural wool rug made from the pelt of an Australian sheep, with pile four or more inches thick. Also from the land 'down under' are two miniature dromedaries carved from ivory mounted on a black base; a desk set made from mulga wood which weighs more than if it was made from some metals; a silver bracelet fashioned from Australian coins ranging from 3-pence to a shilling piece; another bracelet bearing tiny replicas of the Southern Cross, kangaroo, koala and laughing jackass; and toys for Jan, a koala bear, kangaroo doll and aborigine doll, black, tall with grass skirt, kinky hair and necklace of beads and icicle shells. Then there are pins made from woods native to Australia: black palm, silky oak and spotted gum, red cedar and silver ash. Prized also is a small silver trophy or cup which Capt. Hammerschmidt won in a tennis tournament between the American Army and Air Corps and the players of an Australian city, the name of which was deleted by the censor.

Japanese money taken in the invasion of Hollandia is found in the collection. The coinage is from a metal which weighs about the same as and appears to be aluminum. The paper money is about half the size of our money and was printed specifically for the invasion.

Little Jan also has souvenirs from Alaska where the husband of Mrs. Hammerschmidt's sister was in service and from Ireland where Edward Roche, brother of Mrs. Hammerschmidt is stationed.

FIND NEW USE FOR PENICILLIN

New Drug Successfully Combats Tuberculosis Complication

BY FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer
U. S. Naval Hospital, Corona, Calif.—Penicillin has been successfully used to combat a dangerous complication of tuberculosis hitherto relieved only by extensive surgery.

Doctors at this hospital employed the drug to check empyema, a formation of pus in the pleura, the envelope-like sack which covers the lungs.

The condition—a not uncommon complication of tuberculosis—is caused by invasion of streptococcus and staphylococcus germs. It can occur when the lungs are not tuberculous, but it is particularly dangerous when it occurs in conjunction with that disease.

Up to now, the procedure has been to drain off the pus by making an open wound. Drainage has taken as long as six months. In the case of patients already weakened by tuberculosis it has frequently been fatal.

With penicillin, the Navy doctors checked the infection in a short time without surgery. The fluid became clear enough to be drained off merely by inserting a needle into the pleural envelope.

They have used the drug in only two cases so far, but Captain Enoch G. Brian and other doctors said "it worked like magic." They said it justified hope of elimination.

Mrs. Eli Cousineau and Clarence Martin motored to Green Bay on Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Martin both remained there for medical treatment.

Elmer Degenoff returned Thursday from Washington state where he was employed for the past six months.

Mrs. Rosalie Foster has received news from her grandson Cpl. Florian Rhody stating that he has arrived safely in England.

ing another hurdle in the treatment of tuberculosis.

They emphasized that the drug had no effect on the tuberculosis itself. But by clearing up the complication it improved the patients' general health and made their resistance to tuberculosis greater.

In both cases doctors gave the men no more than 24 hours to live. Drainage was deemed out of the question, and penicillin was tried as a last resort. Both men began to pick up immediately and were cleared of the empyema in two weeks.

Independence Day

TODAY'S celebration of the Fourth of July on the home front will be dull compared to the riotous observances that were held in every city and hamlet during the prewar era.

There is ample reason for this. Gasoline and tire rationing is cutting down the travel on the highways, and fireworks are harder to obtain now that the industry is occupied with more important wartime activity. Then, too, the people do not have the old-time inclination for celebrating, now that their sons, brothers and husbands are serving on overseas battlefields, where the real shooting is going on.

The flags decorate the streets today to remind us that this Independence day, however, it is a time for serious thought about the meaning of the war that now embraces virtually the entire world. What it really means is that people have gone to war to win freedom from tyranny and oppression, the same reason that prompted the American colonists to rebel against King George of England and proclaim their independence on July 4, 1776.

The human desire for freedom is something that aggressors like Hitler and his ilk cannot understand. They thought that their dive bombers, tanks and now their robot planes would frighten people into submission to their will. But the fight against human slavery has been going on for centuries, and the record shows that those who would enslave others, are steadily losing ground, although they may enjoy their brief periods of dominance.

Observance of this day is of inestimable value if it makes us realize more fully why men and women are willing to risk their lives and die for the preservation of national independence and individual freedom.

Saipan Is Costly

REALIZING as much as we do how strategically important Saipan is in the checkerboard moves on the Pacific, the Japanese are fighting to the death on this island in the Marianas group.

We are inflicting heavy losses upon the Nipponese, but our victory there will not be achieved without heavy casualties of our own. In fact, the past two weeks of fighting on Saipan resulted in 1,474 Americans killed, 878 missing and 7,400 wounded.

But this is not the end of the story. We have the frank statement from our military leaders that the worst fighting for the Americans in Saipan still lies ahead.

Saipan must be taken, of course, for it will provide us with an naval and aerial base, only 1500 miles from Japan, for opening up a second front in the Pacific. Since the Japs are willing to make heavy sacrifices to keep Saipan, it follows that we shall likely have to suffer heavy losses to capture it.

For the boys on Saipan, this war is something more than buying war bonds, using less sugar in our coffee, and undergoing other minor inconveniences.

Surplus Spuds Dried

THE first run of surplus potatoes through the dehydrators of the Superior Refining company's plant at Menominee and 11 other beet sugar factories in the Middle West has been completed.

This was the first time that the factories had been called upon to do this type of work. There were difficulties at first, of course, but they were soon ironed out. More than eight million bushels of surplus spuds were dehydrated, most of which were diverted to livestock feed.

Only 300,000 gallons of alcohol were distilled from the potatoes, not as much as had been anticipated when the government announced its plans early this year. Principal reason for the breakdown of the alcohol phase of the program was that the distillers were not prepared for the job.

The program met with the enthusiastic approval of Middle West farmers, who had a considerable amount of unsalable potatoes on their hands last spring. The surplus was cleaned up in good shape. The 12 beet sugar factories also liked the experiment, for it gave them additional revenue during a dull period. The potato drying project wound up in late June, in time to permit the factories to make repairs and be in readiness for the 90 to 100-day run on sugar beets after the harvest next fall. It was one government program that seemed to meet the approval of both agriculture and industry.

Be Alive Tomorrow

THE National Safety Council predicts there will be about 1,000 deaths due to accidents in this country over the holidays.

If you do not want your name included in the casualty list, here are a few don'ts issued by the council. Don't drive recklessly on the highways and streets. Don't over exert yourself or expose yourself unnecessarily to the sun. Don't go swimming in unsupervised areas. In other words, don't be careless, if you want to be alive and well tomorrow.

Port On Continent

WHATEVER the extent of the damage which the Germans may have wrought at the docks and shipping facilities of Cherbourg, the advantage to the Allies in having that port under their control is tremendous. Careful plans have been made, with attention paid to the smallest details, for putting Cherbourg into use as a port through which men and supplies will pour.

That the Allies may be depended upon to get the port into operation quickly is obvious. The Allies have had much experience, particularly in Naples, in making ports usable quickly, even overcoming the obstacles of scuttled ships. Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding general of the Army Service Forces, says that arrangements have been made to repair speedily whatever destruction is affected by demolition on the part of the Nazis.

Whether shipments of supplies from America will put straight into Cherbourg cannot be disclosed, but observers point to the obvious advantage of such a method of transportation as contrasted with shipping through Britain.

It is clear that the Allies' superiority in the air can play a tremendous part in keeping Cherbourg open for Allied shipping when the reconstruction job is completed. While the Germans no doubt would, if they could, continuously bomb the port, the Allies have the plane strength to keep an air umbrella over it and the shipping passages leading thereto.

Any armchair strategist can see that when the port is in effective operation, and the men and war supplies pour in, the Germans will be faced with overwhelming odds on land as well as in the air.

DEAN FISHER RETIRES (Houghton Mining Gazette)

After half a century of valuable and distinguished service to many hundreds of Michigan Tech and the old "Mining School" grads, Dr. James Fisher, dean of the faculty of the college, retired July 1 from inactive teaching duties and as head of the Department of Mathematics and Physics. But it is pleasing to note he will not terminate his identity with the college, for he will serve as director of the newly established Extension division. This will enable him to continue many of the activities with which he has long been associated. Tech just wouldn't be wholly Tech without "Jimmy" Fisher and he still will be around and about the campus in the institution's interest.

Dr. Fisher and the college have "grown up" together and he has contributed much to its development and progress. He has seen it grow from a small, struggling school into one of the best technical colleges in the country, one that occupies an enviable position in the engineering world because of the success of the men it has trained.

"M. C. M." and Michigan Tech men are everywhere in the engineering fields and all of them have the greatest respect and the kindest regard for Dean Fisher. His own Alma Mater, with deep appreciation of his services and the prestige he has brought to the school, conferred upon him the honorary degree he bears, that of Doctor of Engineering. It was recognition well merited and was so regarded by the alumni and all other friends of Tech.

The friends of Dean Fisher, and they are legion, extend their best wishes, with the hope that in his new field he will find much happiness and add many more years of constructive service to a record that is outstanding in the field of technical education.

MR DOODLE GOES TO TOWN

Like the term "Yankee," the song "Yankee Doodle" is of uncertain origin. In my research, I have come across many different versions, and no two are in absolute agreement.

For example, one Kossuth, a Magyar, is said to have recognized the tune as one of the national airs of his race. An American diplomat of the last century is reported to have discovered the tune among the ancient sword dances of the Basques. A scholar, "Porson Junior," in 1829 wrote in the United States Magazine that "Yankee Doodle" is of classic origin. "It was chanted in the days of Herodotus, and, perhaps, in those of Homer. Its Greek name was 'Yankee Doodle'."

The Dutch claimed it as an old folksong of Holland, sung by laborers in the lowlands.

Yankee didel, doodledown.
Didel, dudle, lauter;

Yankee viver, vooover, vown.
Bothermilk and tauther.

There was a tradition that the original song was directed at Oliver Cromwell, and alluded to his going into Oxford wearing on his hat a single plume fastened in a knot called a "Macaroni."

Yankee Doodle came to town,
Upon a little poney;

He stuck a feather in his hat,
And call'd it macaroni.

Only this is certain: During the events that preceded the Revolutionary War, the British on every occasion played "Yankee Doodle" in ridicule of Americans, whom they regarded as bumpkins.

Later, however, the ragged Continental Army adopted the tune as a national marching song, and it sounded bravely over the files and drums as our troops

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

The War Department has organized all super-bombers, the B-29's, into a special organization known as the Twentieth Air Force. It will not be stationed in any particular theatre, but will be available for assignment by the Joint Chiefs of Staff where needed, just as naval fleets are assigned.

Seversky

Such unusual arrangements for the new bombers gave the signal for widespread comment to the effect that the strategic value of air power has finally been recognized.

The B-29, some of the comment declared, marks the beginning of true global aerial warfare, since it will be used anywhere on the globe, as required.

Such interpretations indicate a sad lack of understanding of strategic air power in military and lay circles alike.

What constitutes a strategic force in any military sphere? It is a force that can, by its own direct and independent action, destroy the enemy's means to wage war. When the army of one nation destroys the army of another, the war ends. In the case of an insular country, if its navy is destroyed by the opposing navy, a blockade starves it into capitulation.

—AIR POWER'S ROLE—

In our time it is possible to navigate in a new medium, the air. Air power has become a strategic force because by direct and independent action it can do two things: (1) destroy the enemy's means of waging war by demolishing his industrial set-up for war making, and (2) blockade the nation in three dimensions and starve it into capitulation.

This is the kind of force which has not yet been acknowledged by Allied leadership, in spite of the great opportunities offered by the present war. Even in the aerial Battle of Germany, where air power was getting impressive results along strategic lines and seemed headed for victory, everything was called off in favor of tri-phibious operations.

The unique organization of the B-29 into another of "task force" does not alter the picture. No matter how big it is, a task force cannot be considered a strategic force. The whole notion of a task force, now so popular with our military leaders, is a reflection of the influence of air power.

Air power is today the only force that can end war by its direct and independent action. It can disregard armies and navies, can by-pass them and pound the enemy's war machine. Armies and navies, on the other hand, cannot carry out their functions until freedom of action is guaranteed for them by air power.

Having failed to provide ourselves with aircraft of adequate range, we have been obliged to fight for air bases all over the globe. Land and sea forces, no longer enjoying a direct strategic function of their own, combined into task forces whose sole task is to acquire bases, fixed or floating, to make up for the insufficient range. Once the aircraft is brought within striking distance of the enemy, it can do its strategic job.

And here we find the fly in the military ointment. Our investment in a strategic air force is so small in comparison with that in land and sea forces that our air power is still incapable of scoring a decision quickly and conclusively. At the slightest weakening of the enemy from the air, we pounce on him by land and sea, reverting back to tri-phibious assault. This gives great satisfaction to the orthodox military mind, but denies air power the chance to prove its strategic possibilities.

—SOFTENING-UP WEAPON—

In the light of these facts, the Twentieth Air Force cannot possibly be called strategic. It is simply bigger and better artillery thrown into action to support surface strategy here and there as needed. It is in effect an aerial version of the Big Bertha, which the Germans dragged from one front to another in the last war. It is a softening-up weapon which, in the words of General Arnold, "will strike at the sources of enemy strength and prepare the way for ultimate decision by our well-established team of land, sea and air forces."

All the same there are many benefits flowing from the creation of this new air force for the super-bombers. It will preclude the misuse of this equipment for chasing tanks, killing individual riflemen and doing other such chores on the battlefields. Its long-range operations will provide practical demonstrations of how air power can and ought to be applied strategically. It will encourage the creation of aircraft able to span oceans, thus obviating the need to struggle for in-between air bases.

Strategic force, wherever used, must be massed for continuous action looking to a decision. That was true at Waterloo on land and at Trafalgar on water. Had we intended to use the B-29 strategically, we would not have put it into operation until we possessed enough so that, once started, we could have continued bombing Japan without interruption to a decision.

The sporadic use indicated for the B-29, as circumstances permit, definitely removes it from the category of strategic force. It is just a huge gun that sends a few shells here and there to harass the enemy or help our surface actions. The Twentieth Air Force is an almost flawless example of how real strategic air force ought NOT to be used. Indeed, it is nothing but auxiliary aviation deluxe.

How Do You Like Our Fourth of July, Boys?

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

LETTERS FROM HOME—"Soldier's Mother" of Escanaba writes The Bugler that she has received a letter from Bill, a letter that praises the Red Cross and describes the fine work that organization is doing for our soldiers overseas.

She thinks "it is a very fine expression of a soldier's eye view" of the Red Cross. And adds: "Soldier Boy Bill had heard how badly our late Mr. Heintz felt in your letters, when the 61 men in a certain shop gave only $60, while our shop gave at least a day's pay, or more."

Another part of the letter from Soldier Bill comments on "Soldier's Mother" question to him whether the boys overseas like to hear all the "little news" from boys back home. She asked him about it because "one party considered it cruel to write so often and tell so much of all our activities."

But "Soldier's Mother" doesn't stop at just telling her boy in service the news from home. She clips items from the Daily Press which she knows will interest him, and sends them along, too.

SOLDIER'S VIEW—Getting on to this soldier's letter to "Soldier's Mother," he writes: "There have been several times you have mentioned the Red Cross in your letters. What a swell job they do. If only some of those people back home could get over here and see for themselves what is going on maybe those 61 armchair strategists could scrape up a little more than $60!"

"Suppose you are off on pass, are tired and want a bed for the night. Hotels are full; homes are full; yet the Red Cross will always find you a bed. It may be in one of the special dormitories or in a private home—but they always get you a room."

"Suppose you are in a flying crew and have just returned from a mission. The Red Cross is there with coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches—and you're glad, for you're damned hungry. "Now suppose you are working on the line in the ground crew. It is cold and blowy and you are chilled to the bone. Then you hear music and a girl's cheery voice calls out "Come and get it boys!" It's the real American girl in the Red Cross. Clnmobile, ready to dispense coffee and doughnuts to warm you up—free! And to dispense something money can't buy—friendship and heart-warming chatter. You can work after that!"

GOD BLESS THEM!—"You are ready to get on the boat to come over. The Red Cross girls are there with the coffee and doughnuts, and a very useful ditty bag. They are on the boat with musical instruments, cards, cribbage boards, writing paper and envelopes, books and friendship. When you arrive on the other side you are greeted by the Red Cross. When you are on the move they supply you with sack lunches. "They build clubs where you can get a snack, write, read, catch a little shut-eye, listen to the radio, hear recorded music from Bach to Boogie-Woogie."

"And they can do this because 61 men gave $60—and a family of four gave $35 and two quarts of blood!"

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago—1934

Berlin—A crisis in the Nazi government sent Chancellor Hitler to the side of President Von Hindenburg. Hitler left a cabinet meeting abruptly and flew to Berlin after a carefully laid scheme to remove Vice Chancellor Von Papen, friend and protégé of President Hindenburg, fell through.

Two naval vessels, the S. S. Paducah and S. S. Wilmette, visited Escanaba bringing several hundred naval reserves.

Eugene H. Noblet was elected commander of August Matson Post No. 71, American Legion, succeeding A. D. Alguire.

Twenty Years Ago—1924

Hazellhurst—Transcontinental air mail service was inaugurated. Twelve pouches containing 231 pouches carried on eastern trip. Both trips slightly behind schedule. Western trip took 34 hours.

Gore Bay, Ont.—Mrs. Lawrence Buck, Escanaba, was killed when a car she was driving plunged off the road and down a bluff. Her husband was injured but expected to recover.

Lansing—State of Michigan demanded the dissolution of the House of David describing "King" Benjamin Purnell as an impostor and pervert.

Twenty-five Year Ago—1919

say and so do millions of other G. I.'s who know."

AND THE LETTERS—So Soldier Bill concludes his letter of appreciation to the American Red Cross.

Then in response to a question from "Soldier's Mother," he tells what he thinks of the frequent letters from home, and the descriptions of the homey little things of which he has known; and been so fond. Do they make him homesick? Make him lonely?

"No, your day-by-day descriptions of home and community do make me homesick," he writes. "Far from it. They serve as a stimulant to keep me going when I get sluggish; they help smooth out the rough spots when the going gets rugged; they are a beacon when all the world seems dark."

"Please, don't ever stop sending them. For they remind me constantly of what I am in this for, and furnish material for my dreams of the day when I'll come home. I love them, every one of them."

THE LITTLE THINGS—Bill's letter directs attention to what thoughtful people know: That life is made up of the many little things close to the heart. When our men in service are far from home, it is the American Red Cross that can do and does do the "little things" that mean so much. They help make war a little more bearable for millions of American boys.

Here at home we may think there is nothing that we can do to bring the big "little things" into the lives of our fighting men. This is not so. There are opportunities to serve here, at home—through the Red Cross.

There is much work to be done at Red Cross production headquarters here. A bandage is a "little thing," but it may save a life; a robe or a pair of hospital slippers are "little things," but they will make some wounded serviceman more comfortable in a hospital.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Two of the men who participated in the B-29 raids on Japan are related to the head of the Weirton Steel Corp. After the news of the raid was cleared by the censors, these two Air Force officers—who had bombed the Yawata Steel Co. plant—sent a radiogram to their steel-industrialist relative: "Just returned from a successful business trip. Knocked one of your competitors out of business."

CHARLES SEE'S new book about China probably will be published by Scribner's soon. The author wrote two other books, which were published before he arrived in America. He came here from Singapore—one of the few Chinese who was able to escape. . . . Those first two books were written under his real name, Li Sun. His name was changed for him by Jantine Wong, a Chinese dancer he met and married here. She taught him how to dance. And he liked it so much that he became her professional dance partner. They've been working ever since in night clubs and theatres throughout the country.

BEFORE Ernest Hemingway left for Europe he had a final conference with his lawyer, Maurice Speiser. "I think I should tell you this, Maurice," said Hemingway. "I have a great novel. . . . 'Really?' asked Speiser, who had drawn the contracts for the sale of "For Whom The Bell Tolls" and other Hemingway stories. "Where is it? Where is this great novel?" "I have it," replied Hemingway, tapping his head, "in here."

LT. BRUCE CABOT will be mustered out of the Army on July 19 and then will return to Hollywood. He has a contract with Paramount. . . . Maxwell Anderson is the latest writer to start growing a beard. His explanation is: "I don't like the razors and blades being manufactured these days." . . . The Rivoli Theatre will have a girl doorman this week. . . . James Waterman Wise, the Ridgefield country squire, visited a N. Y. cafe, studied the patrons and complained: "The Terre Haute model." . . . BETTY COMPTON, the ex-Mrs. Jimmy Walker, is in the hospital again. . . . Pat Parcoe of the Folies, who has been sending her photos to the Sea Bisc in the Admiralty Islands, received a note from them reporting that they didn't need any pins to keep the photos on the walls—their heavy breathing kept them there. . . . At the Hoyle Club Bernie Hart became incensed at a stupid poker player and asked the player: "Weren't you injected with imbecillan?" . . . Capt. Erling Olmstead, skipper of the first Liberty ship, will have a phone broadcast from Africa with Capt. Hopper, skipper of the newest Liberty ship, the "Benjamin Warner."

WHEN THE Gypsy Rose Lee movie "Belle of the Yukon" was finished, the producers gave a party, and used the picture's saloon set for entertaining. The set was decorated luxuriously, as a night club of the Gold Rush period. . . . Lady Mendl arrived at the party. The venerable decorator glanced at the place, critically, and said: "This place hasn't enough novelty to attract the public I doubt if it can run." . . . "We heard what you said," one of the producers told her, when the guests were leaving, "and we quite agree with you. A place like this can't run. So watch." He signalled the workmen, and they dismantled the no longer needed movie set.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Two of the most important diplomatic reports of the war have been received at the White House recently, not from any trained diplomats, but from two private American citizens—Father Orlamski of Springfield, Mass., and Professor Oscar Lange, Polish-American leader and a teacher at the University of Chicago, both of whom had interviews with Stalin.

Although less widely publicized than Father Orlamski's interview, Professor Lange had a long separate talk with Marshal Stalin and, perhaps because he was not circumscribed by Church superiors, his report, on the whole, has been the more penetrating and helpful.

Net conclusion drawn from the Lange-Orlamski reports is that Polish-Russian relations, one of the most troublesome problems of the war, are on the eve of a wholesome rapprochement, probably beginning about now.

It was shortly after the receipt of the Lange-Orlamski reports that President Roosevelt began a series of three conferences with Polish Premier Mikolajczyk in Washington, the results of which exceeded expectations.

If Polish-Russian relations can be settled amicably, one of the worst obstacles to post-war peace will be removed. Poland, for a hundred years partially governed by Russia, has a deep-rooted suspicion of the Soviet, while the Russians, having borne the main brunt of the European war on land, naturally feel they are entitled to areas forcibly wrested away from them after the last war.

—STALIN DISCUSSES POLISH BOUNDARIES—

In their separate interviews with Stalin, the two Polish-Americans, Father Orlamski and Professor Lange, heard the reassuring words from the strong man of Russia that his Government wants a "strong, independent Poland after the war—a Poland which will be strong both internally and externally, but which will be favorably disposed to the Soviet Union."

Stalin went even further and said that he was ready to help create a new Polish Army.

"I am ready to build an Army for Poland, equip it fully and arm it with the best guns the Soviet Union can make," he told Professor Lange. "I will do this for at least 1,000,000 men."

Stalin also discussed the question of Poland's future boundaries and revealed that they had already been discussed in some detail at Teheran. In doing so, he let drop a very important point—that, at Teheran, Roosevelt and he had agreed to the break-up of Germany after the war.

"Poland should claim East Prussia," Stalin said, "and should also claim Upper Silesia and all the German territory up to the Oder River, including Stettin."

NOTE—This would give Poland practically all of Pomerania, a great stronghold of Prussian militarism. Shortly after Teheran, this columnist reported that the Big Three had proposed giving Pomerania, East Prussia and Silesia to Poland, in order to separate the Prussian junkers from the rest of Germany and stamp out German militarism for keeps.

Stalin told his visitors that he was not sure whether Poland should get Breslau (in Silesia) or not. This was a point, he said, which needed further consideration.

When these plans for Poland had come up at Teheran, Stalin disclosed, President Roosevelt had been in complete agreement, but Prime Minister Churchill had hesitated.

"He asked me: 'Who is to guarantee the security of this new Polish State?' I answered him simply: 'The armed might of the Soviet Union.'"

—POLES IN RUSSIA—

Professor Lange had been permitted to visit with the Polish Army inside Russia which is fighting side by side with the Red Army. He also had talked with various Polish leaders inside Russia, and he told Stalin that he was deeply moved by the splendid treatment given the Polish Army by the Red Army.

"I am sorry to hear that you are surprised," Stalin said. "The world must think harshly of us if they believe we mistreat those who fight with us, or any other people because of race, color or creed."

However, Professor Lange was not so complimentary in telling Stalin about the living conditions of the Polish population now living in Russia. He described the situation as deplorable.

Stalin admitted that this might be true, and also admitted the truth of Professor Lange's contention that, when these people returned to Poland, they would be bitter against Russia.

"However," Stalin pointed out, "they are being treated no worse than Soviet citizens in the same communities. This is an economic condition brought on by the war, not because we don't like the Poles."

News From Men In The Service

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Corporal Donald R. Skoog, a member of the 36th Combat Engineer Regiment, whose home is at 1226 North 16th Street, Escanaba, Mich., has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in action with the Fifth Army in Italy.

He has recovered and returned to duty.

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Private First Class Joseph C. Chaisson, son of Mrs. Anna Chaisson, who lives at 1008 Second Avenue South, Escanaba, Mich., has been promoted to corporal. He is a squad leader with an infantry unit of the Fifth Army in Italy.

First Sgt. David Alperovitz, who is now in France, writes that he has met Lt. Col. Loren Jenkins, Mike Farrell and Lewis (first name not given) of Escanaba.

Cpl. Austin Stegath, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Stegath, who is with the American Fifth Army in Italy, has written this interesting description of the battle for Rome, in a letter to his parents.

"For several days before the push started, our artillery laid down very heavy but brief barrages. All the guns roared angrily and the ground shook with delight.

"Our first move was not far but at least we were out of our shell coop in which we had been for four long trying months. One night we moved up past the first break-through. We passed tanks wrecked by mines and gunfire. There were some dead bodies scattered about. No one had time to give them a decent burial. We pulled off alongside a dusty tank trafficking road, got down on our hands and knees and started prodding with bayonets for possible mines. After an hour of this we had to go up farther and and wound up in a group of Sherman tanks. Mortar shells popped ahead of us and you could see the red tracers of machine guns arcing through the sky.

Lots of Shelling
"Early in the morning the tanks started out. The infantry was trying to take a small hill top town while over to our right the battle for Velletri was on. The tanks moved a ways and then stopped. Finally, it was decided to outflank the town but not before a few P-47's came over and dropped their 1,000 pound eggs in the town. Then the tanks ground around the hill. The Krauts started to toss mortars galore to our infantry and at times the entire hillside was covered with popping puffs of white smoke. Later we learned the Germans were trying to pull out and the roads were jammed with their equipment. We ruined a lot of it as we discovered on passing along a few days later.

"While we were in this position one Kraut self propelled gun kept shelling our position. Finally they shot once too often and our big guns shut him up permanently.

"From then on we kept moving through wreckage and stench, day and night. Once our rations and water didn't catch us for two days. We would pull in a place and eager natives would tell us the Krauts had just left 10 to 20 hours before.

"Rome has been a decided disappointment. It's a pretty city and reeks with history but most of the shops have nothing to sell. You can't buy a meal and you wonder how all of the people make a living. The people are not friendly and the small banner they had strung across the street, 'Welcome to Our Liberators,' was smaller than I've seen in local elections. The people dress well but they're half starved.

"The Vatican is interesting—what I could see of it. It will be much easier to tell you about it around Christmas—if luck is with us."

Capt. Charles Nadeau Wounded In France

Capt. Charles Nadeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel A. Nadeau, of Stephenson, was wounded by a bullet in an elbow and shrapnel wounds elsewhere in the D-Day landing in Normandy, his parents were informed yesterday.

Capt. Nadeau was attorney for the Shell Oil company in Houston, Texas, before entering the service. He is in the infantry. An R. O. T. C. officer at the University of Michigan during his student days, he is married. Mrs. Nadeau lives in Houston.

The letter informing Mr. and Mrs. Nadeau that he had been wounded in a landing operation was written by a buddy, apparently dictated, and gave few details.

Capt. Nadeau is a brother of Mrs. Luther Krantz, South Twelfth Street, Escanaba.

Ah, Such Coffee! You Could Chew It

Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—The prize winning story in a true story contest at Peterson field was the one about ersatz coffee, told by Cpl. Horace G. Dunn.

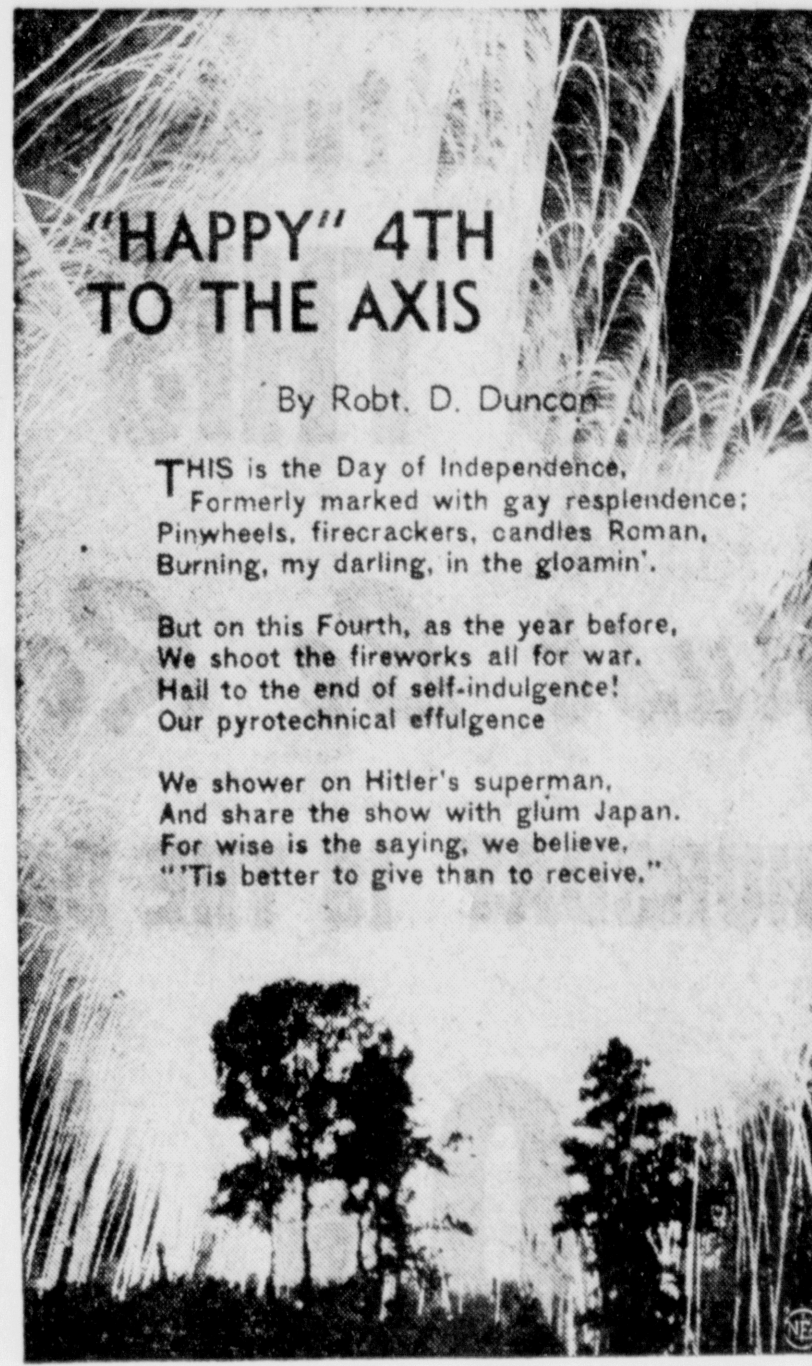

The corporal said two sergeants and an officer were camped in nearby mountains. One sergeant, wanting coffee, replenished the campfire and brewed a brew.

The night was chilly and the officer, tendered the first cup, drank heartily. "Coffee always hits the spot when it's cooked in the wide, open spaces," he said. The sergeants, too, drank, but they questioned the taste. The coffee, said they, was sharp. By this time the officer agreed. He was ill.

The coffee-making sergeant investigated. In the darkness he had mistaken a can of tobacco for coffee.

P. A. MARTINEAU DIES

Marquette—Pierre A. Martineau, 78 who retired from the practice of law about seven years ago, died at 5:15 Friday afternoon at Marquette General hospital where he had been a patient for several weeks. Death was attributed to a heart ailment and complications. He returned to Marquette a month ago from Memphis, Tenn., where he spent the winter with a son.

Mr. Martineau was born June 6, 1866, at Oconto, where he was reared. After attending the University of Notre Dame he transferred to the University of Wisconsin where he was graduated from the law school in 1891.

MONEY IN STRAWBERRIES

Sault Ste. Marie—Some Houghton county and other strawberry growers have been realizing more than $1,000 per acre from berry shipments the past two years according to a bulletin from the office of Ben A. Heath, agricultural agent for the South Shore and Soo Line railways, Marquette.

In the latter part of the winter the first strawberries appear on the north market. They are a product of southern Florida. The color and flavor are said to be nothing to brag about, but they are fresh fruit and they look good to northerners after weeks of snow and cold weather.

The growers profit from the fact that they have the earliest berries on the market. But up here, in the north country, on the shore of Lake Superior in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, small groups of strawberry growers are taking increasing advantage of the fact that they can produce the latest main crop of strawberries of any place in the United States.

WILSON CONVICTED

Iron River—Convicted June 12 of failure to report for induction, John H. Wilson, 32, Iron River, was sentenced by Judge Fred Raymond, in Grand Rapids, to serve three years and six months in a federal prison.

Wilson was found guilty, at a hearing in Marquette before Judge Raymond, of draft evasion. He was specifically charged with failure to report for induction here Dec. 8, 1942.

His record in the draft office here disclosed he had failed to report for induction on two occasions. At his hearing he said he was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses and, because he was a "minister of religion," he was not subject to the draft. He was defended by William R. McCreve, Detroit, Michigan counsel for the religious sect.

Cripple Turns Out Model Planes Daily

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—Paralyzed, but with four brothers in service and an ambition to do a man's job in the war, Walter Ford 24, now turns out at least three model P-38 fighters daily for use in a miniature assembly line at the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corp. plant here.

Company engineers say Walter's replicas of all type of factory equipment have been useful in revamping plant departments for maximum production efficiency. His main job, though, is creation of the tiny fighters to "help someone who can fly 'em."

The purpose of the school is to show women, as well as other drivers, how to make minor emergency repairs such as tire changing and electrical system adjustments. There also will be an exhibit of "cut-down" motors and other car parts.

The school will be continued for two or three days if the interest warrants. No admission fee will be charged.

Att'y McGinn Tells Of GOP Convention

Highlights of the recent Republican convention were reviewed at yesterday's meeting of the Rotary Club by Denis McGinn, assistant sargent at arms at the convention. McGinn told of the early convention activities among state delegations and outlined the beginning of the Dewey handwagon when Governor Dwight Greene, of Illinois, caused the Illinois delegation and announced it would back Dewey. Michigan and other states followed the Illinois lead in rapid succession and proclaimed Governor Dewey as the party standard bearer in the coming November presidential election.

Interest at the convention centered around the selection of a candidate for vice president following Governor Warren's refusal to accept the bid and the acceptance of Governor Bricker, of Ohio, as the second place nominee on the ticket.

McGinn proclaimed Governor Dewey's acceptance speech as holding the interest of the delegates who partially filled the stadium.

Escanaban Tells About Invasion Of French Coast

Pfc. Theodore Dart, of Escanaba, brother of Mrs. Ben Shandony and Ernest Dart, of this city, is among the American troops who participated in the invasion of France. The first letter received from him since D-day follows:

"Well, I can take time off to tell you that I am alright. We were in the first group of soldiers to hit the coast of France. They surely gave us a warm welcome when we got there. We got stuck on the beach coming in and they would not let us get off because they had so much stuff on the beach. The shells were dropping all around us. After midnight they came over with airplanes and bombs. There were quite a few of us on the boat and we were plenty scared. I guess the Lord must have heard our prayers because they kept missing us.

This is a lot nicer country than England. We were down by a town yesterday where we were working and there wasn't a building standing.

"It sure was tough getting off that beach in France. They had enough mines on the beach to blow Escanaba off the map. The Germans were well dug in and it was a hard job finding them. We could hear them shooting at us and so all we could do was to lie flat on the ground."

Pfc. Dart has been in service four years, entering service with the national guard. He served in Ireland for one year and was in England for two years before the invasion.

He enclosed money order for $150, requesting his sister to buy

Train Traffic Over Fourth Week-End Is Heavier Than In '43

Train traffic over the July 4 weekend this year has greatly exceeded that of last year, it was learned yesterday from Roger J. Moras, general agent for the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. Every train coming north has been loaded to capacity. Friday and Saturday nights it was necessary to run the "400" streamliner in sections between Milwaukee in sections between Milwaukee and Green Bay and north of Green Bay over 1200 passengers were carried on Friday night.

"The public is just not heeding the request of the ODT to refrain from traveling," said Mr. Moras. "As a result it has been necessary to run trains in sections and also to put on extra coaches on all trains.

Trainmen anticipate that starting tonight holiday traffic will begin flowing southward. Extra coaches will be placed on all trains in order to handle the rush which is expected to be cleaned up by the week-end.

Michigan Trails By More Than $100,000,000 In Purchases By Individuals

5th WAR LOAN ENDS THIS WEEK

All Lost Ground Must Be Regained

HERE IS THE WAY — THURSDAY IS THE DAY

HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR ALL-OUT DAY IN MICHIGAN

Every Man, Woman and Child Is Asked To Help

Michigan CAN and WILL do the job! We lead the nation by a big margin in per capita ownership of E Bonds, and have led in this all-important category in every War Loan campaign to date—even in the 4th War Loan, where we trailed by over fifty million dollars until the entire State got on its fighting clothes in the last two days, and went over the top WITH A ROAR!

This time we are twice as far behind, because of the larger 5th War Loan quota, and it will take statewide action beyond anything we have done before to reach our objective—but we in Michigan have the will and the fight to do it! There is no soldier boy on any battle front who ever will have cause to say we let him down.

Don't wait for anyone to call on you—we're beyond that stage now. Just head for the nearest issuing agency and buy every War Bond you can—or use the Savings Bank Withdrawal Order, below. The time is short—the job is big! Let's send the word clear 'round the world that Michigan has done it again — for, remember, that AS MICHIGAN GOES—SO GOES THE WAR!

HAVE FAITH — and show it NOW

FIRST IN MICHIGAN

Neenah—Centennial visitors may have to ask the way, but they should not miss a visit to the ruins of the Pioneer furnace, which is only a matter of blocks from the principal business street of the community.

The furnace, first in Michigan, was started in June, 1857, and completed the following year. Two ovens were installed, the first being put in blast April 18, 1858, and the second May 20, 1859.

The furnace was burned down, but rebuilt in 1877, and from then was in continuous operation until June, 1893, when the last pig iron came out of this historic project.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-286: Helen B., aged 27, is a school teacher.

"Will the postwar period be marked by an increase in internationalism and the world brotherhood?" she asked after a recent lecture I delivered in Cleveland.

"Do you think another terrible war can be avoided? If so, will a World Court or League of Nations be able to do so?"

Diagnosis

It seems very probable that a wave of intense nationalism will sweep the world as soon as this global war terminates.

This will be the normal psychological compensatory reaction on the part of peoples who have been downtrodden for several years.

You readers know from your own experience with current events as well as with history, that the oppressed soon become violent dictators as their former oppressors, if you give them a chance.

What happened in France when the mobs revolted and captured Marie Antoinette?

What happened in Russia when the Communists unseated the Czar?

What happened in the U. S. A. in the postwar carpet-bagger era following the surrender of Lee to Grant at Richmond?

What is happening currently in the employer-employee situation? Slaves Make Terrible Dictators

Many of the nations of Europe have been in virtual slavery for several years. Yet they are proud people who have keenly resented their lowly status and who have vowed vengeance when the day of reckoning arrives.

Do you mature readers think Poland will be a placid member of a World Court? How about Greece whose people have been starving by thousands each month? Or proud France? Or Czechoslovakia? Or Yugoslavia, Norway, Belgium, Denmark and the Netherlands?

When enslaved peoples suddenly gain the ascendancy role, the pendulum swings rapidly to the other extreme and they try to compensate for their previous humiliating servitude by going emotionally berserk in a wild wave of bloody reprisals in the name of nationalism.

That's what happened after World War I, even among our Allies. The British called us "Uncle Shylock" and sneered at our participation in the war to save their hides, saying, rather, that they had really fought to save us and that we should be glad to waive our billions of war loans as a partial debt we owed the British Empire.

History Repeats Itself

Do you readers think human nature has suddenly changed in the past 25 years?

We shall doubtless feel the violent effects of a reverse swing to the pendulum of our fervor in saving the world, for all history and psychology point to the era of ill will that will follow this World War II.

"But isolationism caused this war!" many people glibly retort. "Don't kid yourself! This war started in Europe among peoples who were banded together into rival federations of nations. They weren't isolationist. For Europe has never had an isolationist ideology. Europe has always been imperialistic and 'internationalist' which is why it has precipitated practically every war in the last 2,000 years.

It would be well for America to lend its influence and Christian charity to an attempt to outlaw war, but only within the limits of horse sense and good psychology.

As an idealist, I am sorry to

The Dominican Sisters, who came here from their Mother House in Adrian, assisted Father Hennelly with the religious instructions.

A procession was formed at the church hall and proceeded to the church.

Taking part in the procession were the communicants, altar boys and angels who were Marlene Christian, Karen Mager, Mary Lee LaCoursier, Patricia Marcoe, Evelyn Poquette and Patricia Rochon.

After the ceremonies a communion breakfast, which was prepared by the ladies of St. Anne's, was served to the children in the church hall.

5TH WAR LOAN LAGGING HERE

Though Quota For This Drive Highest Yet, Says Bond Head

With eight days of the fifth war loan drive remaining, Schoolcraft county residents have purchased an estimated 50 per cent of their quota of $347,000, according to Fred H. Hahne, chairman of the war loan drive.

Of the $347,000 quota, $145,000 is to be bought by corporations, companies, and associations. The individual total is $202,000. That total is broken down into $125,000 series E war bonds and $77,000 other types of securities.

"Schoolcraft county has met its quota in every war loan drive so far," Hahne said. "It's lagging." He did say that the county quota this time is higher than it has ever been.

Hahne added that any bonds bought and cleared through the Federal Reserve bank on or before July 31 will be counted toward filling the quota.

The three issuing agencies for bonds in Schoolcraft county are The State Savings Bank, The First National Bank, and The United States post office.

PRICE PANEL IS APPOINTED

Ration Board Reorganization Proceeding Here

Organization of the ration board panels in Manistique got under way last week with a meeting of the price panel. The panel under the chairmanship of R. L. Pine is composed of Dan J. Harrington, Mrs. Clara Hastings, Earl LeBrasseur, Arthur Demers and Mrs. Eva Benner, clerk of the panel. Also present for the discussion of retail prices was Judge W. G. Stephens, chairman of the local war price and ration board.

The discussion brought out the fact that co-operation of Schoolcraft county merchants to maintain price ceilings was excellent.

According to George Matthews, ration board clerk, up to now the 12 volunteer members of the board have been handling all ration applications, such as mileage, food, boots and shoes, fuel oil and stove. As fast as time permits, Matthews hopes to split the board into three panels. There will be a panel to handle all mileage problems such as gasoline and tires. Another group will handle all household goods such as foods, boots and shoes. A third panel will deal with heating problems as for instance, fuel oil and stoves.

He hopes to arrange his schedule so that a separate panel will be in charge of the office each day. For example, the mileage panel will meet one day, the household goods panel the next, and the fuel oil and stove panel the following.

He also intends to lighten the work on individual members by increasing the number on the board to about 36. The acting panel of mileage and household goods is to be increased to five seats each while the fuel oil and stove panel will have three seats.

McSpaden Beats Hogan by 3 Strokes to Win Chicago Victory Meet

GIVES JUG 5TH TITLE OF YEAR

$3,000 In War Bonds Is 1st Prize; $1,750 For Second

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Tournament-wise Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Philadelphia shot a one-under par 70 today to beat Lieut. Ben Hogan by three strokes in a playoff for the Chicago Victory national championship—the easterner's fifth golf title of the year.

The two were deadlocked with the event's regulation 72 holes yesterday afternoon.

Hogan, stationed at the Fort Worth, Tex., army air field, dropped behind on the first nine after battling to control a hook, shooting a 37 to McSpaden's 35. Little Ben's drives were in the rough on seven holes, and even his putter failed him and he missed from distances of six, eight and two feet on the last three holes of the out nine.

But Ben, competing in his first tournament since joining the service in November 1942, recovered his composure to take the 10th with a par 3 when his Philadelphia opponent chipped 15 feet past the pin and failed to sink his putt.

Jug again moved two strokes ahead on the 11th with a 12 foot birdie putt and gained another on the 13th when Hogan over-chipped 15 feet from the cup for a bogey 5.

On the following two par-5 holes, Hogan took a pair of birdies while Jug managed pars, missing a four-footer for a bird on the 15th. McSpaden, his lead cut to one stroke, matched Hogan's 4 on the 16th after a great recovery from the rough, and then cinched the match on the 135-yard 17th by planting his tee shot seven feet from the cup and ramming in the putt for a demerit.

Hogan overshot the green and took a 4.

Hogan's 37-36—73 was his poorest round in seven he had played at Edgewater since last Wednesday.

Bagging his third playoff victory in the last year, McSpaden pocketed $3,000 in war bonds to run his season's leading bond earnings to $18,000. Hogan, suffering his fourth playoff defeat since 1941, received $1,750 in bonds.

Both also will receive 25 per cent of today's gross gate turned in by a gallery of about 4,000 who swarmed over the course.

Night Baseball Pours Gold in Club Coeffers

BY JACK HAND

New York, July 3 (AP)—Night baseball is pouring a steady stream of gold into the club owners' pockets and a steady stream of satisfied customers into their ball parks.

That's the consensus drawn today from unofficial attendance statistics as the major leagues enjoyed an open date before the busy 4th of July doubleheaders marking the traditional half way mark of the season.

Arc light ball has drawn 1,156,067 customers through the big league turnstiles or approximately 27 per cent of the grand total of 4,241,486 that puts the majors several laps ahead of their 1943 pace. Last year the final figures showed 7,714,636 paid.

The figures reveal an average night game crowd at 13,931 as compared to the weekday afternoon norm of 4,919. With Sunday and "owl" game turnouts accounting for two thirds of their drawing power, night ball addicts have a good selling point when they ask for more after-dark trays at the special meetings in Pittsburgh, July 11.

Boys Gets Tips On Baseball From The Old Timers

BY ROY ROBERTS

(Speaking for Whitney Martin)

Denver, July 3, (AP)—Fourth of July—Holiday—Good day for watching a ball game—Let's go down the street to an old timers' diamond.

Looks like a major league game in miniature, doesn't it?

The kids are wearing regulation suits and using regulation equipment. They're playing under big league rules. The scene is the same on diamonds all over town this Fourth of July.

These boys with "old timers" on their T-shirts are on the sports trail for certain. Five or six years along the trail, maybe sooner, some of them might be playing in the majors. But that's not the main idea.

Chief purpose of Denver's unique boy baseball program, originated and conducted by the Old Timers' Association of Denver, is to interest boys in competitive sports, teach them obedience, sportsmanship, clean living, clean thinking.

Old Timers Help

Next, give the boys something besides unorganized kic baseball with its gang fights, name-calling, shoddy play, destructiveness.

The Old Timers' Association, men who missed out on supervised play when they were young, provide the diamonds, suits and coaches. The boys do the rest. The old timers get nothing out of it but the warm feeling that they may have helped a boy along the sports trail, helped him cut the right pattern for his life.

The Old Timers' coaches, experts in baseball and boys, have schooled these youngsters for two weeks. They taught them the rules, how to pitch, how to play the infield and the outfield, how to bat. Now the boys are playing league schedules under the standards of big league ball.

The Old Timers don't preach. The kids would walk out on them if they did. The Old Timers are smart. At the request of the Old Timers, Danny Murtaugh of the Philadelphia Phillies showed the boys how to wear their suits.

All the boys wear their suits like Danny showed them. Porter Vaughan of the Philadelphia Athletics talked to the boys about the importance of cleanliness. The boys take showers after every game and the arguments with mothers about bathing are practically nil.

Bob Feller and Joe Dimaggio didn't slouch around their positions and pick quarrels with opposing players. Neither do the Old Timers' players.

That's why the kids down the street look like ball players, act like ball players and play a high class brand of ball.

What did the ump stop the game for and why are the boys gathered around him? That's part of the program. The pitcher failed to cover first on the last play and the umpire has stopped the game to point out the mistake and explain how the play should have been handled.

While these boys are acquiring baseball habits, they are acquiring the correct ones.

BIRCHES NOSE DX

Skippy Hansen hit a homer with three on base for the Wells DX team, but they still took a 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of the White Birches. The winners also were aided by a homer, hit by Bob Marvener.

The L. & L. squad scored a 2-0 shutout over the Brevorts. Kidd had a triple for the winners and Elgert chalked up 12 strikeouts.

LOCALS BEATEN AT GLADSTONE

Junior Leaguers Play 5-1 Ball Game Sunday

Gladstone, Mich.—Five runs in the third inning was the start and finish of the scoring for Gladstone Sunday afternoon, but it was enough to tag the Escanaba. All Stars with a 5-1 defeat in a game which was one of the features of the Uplay Fourth of July observance.

Arnsen led off the big inning by singling to right field and then stealing second. Richards singled to score Arnsen and LaPoint hit to right field for two bases with Richard tallying the second run. McIntyre punched a hit into left field, scoring LaPoint, and Schene singled past second with McIntyre crossing the plate. Lundin got on base on an error, and advanced to second on a wild pitch on which Schene scored the fifth run.

Escanaba scored its lone run on a single by Ross, an error, which enabled Schils to reach first, with Ross taking second, and a fielder's choice on which Ross scored.

McIntyre on the mound for the Uplay's gave up four hits and struck out 12 men. Beck started for the All Stars, but lasted only three innings, granting five hits. Ross took over the hurling duties at this point and allowed only four hits the rest of the route, but the damage was already done.

Great Lakes Nine Clashes With Flint

Flint, Mich., July 3 (AP)—Undeclared in 22 starts Great Lakes naval training center meets the Flint City league all-stars at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday at Atwood stadium.

A crowd of more than eight thousand fans is expected.

Besides the presence of Mickey Cochrane, Schoolboy Rowe and Virgil Truck Flint fans will be lured by Gene Woudling who won the Michigan State league batting championship in 1941 while playing right field for the Flint Indians.

Four hundred species of trees have been found in an area only three miles square in Brazil.

Ronnie Lee Kuykendall of Indianapolis, Ind., was born with a "V" marking between his eyes.

Three seasons, the figures show:

Year Attendance Receipts
1942 150,340 $604,183
1943 180,544 $626,372
1944 182,822 $767,002

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis' last two fights, against Buddy Baer and Abe Simon, are included in the 1942 figures, lowest of the lot. Joe's clash with Baer drew 18,570 fans and $189,700, while the farewell appearance against Simon extracted $182,480 from 18,220 customers.

Since then the little fellows—Beau Jack, Bob Montgomery, Al Davis, Sammy Angott, Willie Pep, Juan Zurita and such—have belted the turnstiles over the 19,000 mark six times—with Beau Jack being in five of the heavily-attended attractions.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Any resemblance to softball was purely coincidental when the Postoffice and Daily Press teams resumed their seasonal diamond feud Sunday morning. The P. O. won the game, 37 to 29, mainly by virtue of an 18 run spree in the second inning. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning because: 1. The players were getting weary. 2. It was well past dinner time. There still was some beer left in the keg, since the boys had devoted too much time to the game and not enough to the keg.

The teams played short-handed, which only partially accounts for the heavy

ENTER PENSIVE IN TOUGH RACE

Out of Age Class In The Stars And Stripes Handicap

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Pensive, leading contender for the national three year old championship, will move out of his age class to race against seasoned campaigners in Arlington Park's $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap tomorrow.

Warren Wright's fashionably bred colt, which already has victories in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness to his credit, will take on 11 formidable rivals in this mile and a quarter gallop.

George Drum, Rounders and Valdina Foe will be among his challengers.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the holiday program. This will be the high spot in five days of charity racing which began today and which will run through Friday.

Botting records are expected to be broken if favorable weather continues. The all time Chicago watering record is $1,563,279, which was set at Washington Park last Labor Day.

Though high ranking three year olds usually are withheld from competition with older horses until later in the season, Pensive's venture into the handicap division is nothing new to him. Away last March he was running against his elders, finishing second to African Sun, the Key Largo handicap at Tropical Park, after which he conquered a field of older horses, including Sun Again, in the Rowe Memorial at Pimlico.

Rounders, the Irish bred colt now owned by William Hells of New Orleans, will try to duplicate his victory of last season in the Stars and Stripes. George Drum, which won two stakes during the 1943 Chicago season, ran second to Sun Again in the Equipoise mile on June 24. Valdina Foe, which will carry the colors of John Marsch of Chicago, won the La Salle and the Lincoln handicaps during the recent Lincoln Fields meeting.

Was Bridge And Building
Foreman For C&NW
Many Years

Peter Adrian Swanson, 69, of 413 South Fourteenth street, died Sunday morning at 2:05 o'clock at his home. He had been in ill health, suffering from a heart ailment for some time but was up and around his home Saturday evening as usual, his death coming suddenly following an attack a few hours later.

Mr. Swanson was a bridge and building foreman for the Chicago & North Western Railway for many years. He retired in 1935 because of ill health.

He was born on September 6, 1874, in Sorby, Kalmar, Lan, Olund, Sweden, and came to Escanaba fifty years ago, to make his home here continuously until the time of his death.

He was a member of Impellant Lodge, No. 460, I. O. O. F., in which he was presented with the 40-year membership jewel two years ago. He also was affiliated with the North Star Lodge and with the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, No. 904.

Surviving are his wife, one son, Oliver A. Swanson, of Escanaba; three grandchildren; a brother, John Swanson, of Crivitz, Wis.; and two brothers in Sweden.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home where it is in state. Services will be held at the funeral home chapel, Dr. C. Albert Lund of Bethany Lutheran church officiating, and burial will be in Lakeview cemetery. The Odd Fellows ritual will be conducted at the services.

Members of the Odd Fellows lodge will gather at the Anderson funeral home at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon to pay their last respects and to attend the funeral in a body.

Grand Rapids Man New International Chief Of Kiwanis

An advertising executive and former newspaper editor, who long has been one of America's top spokesmen for the free enterprise system of government, will guide Kiwanis International's more than 2,200 clubs and 122,000 members throughout the United States and Canada during the coming year.

Ben Dean, of Grand Rapids, Mich., known by thousands of Kiwanians from Coast-to-coast, came up the ladder the hard way and previous to his election as president of the international service organization, played an active role in the movement of business, industry and agriculture to preserve and protect their constitutional rights.

A Kiwanian for 16 years, Dean has not allowed the national picture to undermine his civic responsibility in Grand Rapids, where he is chairman of the Better Business Bureau, director of the Chamber of Commerce, a trustee of the Baptist church, a former chairman of the Red Cross chapter and one time president of the board of education.

Dean was elected president of Kiwanis International at its 1944 war time convention in Chicago. His selection was hailed by leaders in all walks of life for he speaks a language calling for a stable world economy after the war.

Dean was consistently advocate the development of specific community plans to meet post-war problems, an orderly but certain demobilization of war-time economic controls, the development of fiscal policies which will give the free enterprise system a chance to operate, the rehabilitation and employment of servicemen and women, and an enlarged program of education for all who are able to take advantage of it.

Fourth of July Much Different This Year

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Chicago—Those of us who grew up here in the Midwest remember a different kind of Fourth of July from the one we're observing this year. Today it's quiet in all the little towns across the great rich prairie that is the heart of the nation.

M. Childs

It's quiet because people are working. They're working in factories or mills or they're working in the fields where the prolonged unnatural rains have delayed the crop season. Or maybe they're resting for a day, resting from the long toll that has produced our strength.

On those other Fourth's you could smell the gunpowder the moment you woke up, and that was only a little after daybreak. The grand, wonderful excitement went on through the whole day, till the last rocket trailed an arc across the sky.

It Came So Easy
Looking back, you sometimes feel that all the noise and the Roman candles and the pinwheels were irrelevant; that we didn't think much about what it was for. Perhaps we did take it for granted. It came so easy.

It seemed to grow out of the lushness of the countryside, out of the full picnic baskets, the tables groaning with such food as never was before or since. I can remember especially the Indian pickles in olive oil and the cherry pies if the season was late.

I seem to remember more flags then. At home we had a huge flag of wool bunting that was hung from a big tree on a rope that reached into an attic window. Putting it up was quite a job and when you'd finished, you felt proud to see the flag there in the warm, still air.

Maybe we did take it for granted—everything that lay behind the flag and the firecrackers and the picnic baskets. It may be merely a nostalgic illusion, but looking back that time seems to have been singularly uncomplicated.

Enemies Also Within
We didn't appear to have any enemies, or at least we didn't recognize them since they may have been our own complacency and indifference. Our world today is unbelievably complicated so that still, sometimes, we do not know our enemies.

Hitler—that's simple enough, and Tojo. But today there are enemies within as well as without. There are men and women, so full of frustration, so bitten by hate, that they would destroy or distort everything most precious in our way of life.

I think as yet their number is small. If we manage our affairs in the next two or three years, which will be test years, with some degree of success, then their number will remain small. That is, they'll be so few that their shrill voices of hate and dissension will not matter. We seem able, we Americans, to stand a lot of raving and ranting of one kind and another. But this time we can't afford complacency and indifference. This time we're going to have to know and understand something at least about the complicated world we live in.

It's utterly changed from the world of 25 years ago. History took a tremendous jump in that quarter century.

We can't go back to that simpler day, the firecrackers and the picnic baskets. Too many people want to go back, which may be one reason for the frustration and the despair.

So much is in our heritage. And on this day of all days we must realize that it is not a dead thing, a document done up with red seals. It must be not only cherished but enriched. "It is for us the living . . ." That's what Lincoln was talking about in another war.

Early Lumbering Days Described
By Carl Sawyer
Old-time logging days were described in an interesting talk by Carl J. Sawyer, veteran timber cruiser and lumberman, at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel Monday noon.

Mr. Sawyer said he began working in the woods in Minnesota in 1899. At that time, most of the cutting was in the white pine stands, and the logging of Norway pine was just getting under way. The making of roads, skidding, decking, river drives and other early logging operations were explained by the speaker. With the logging off of the pine, Mr. Sawyer said there developed increased use for hardwoods and other species of timber.

While many of the big sawmills that operated in the Escanaba region are now dismantled, Mr. Sawyer predicted there would be woods operations for years to come because of the utilization of timber for the manufacture of paper, boxes, ties and other forest products.

He praised the forest fire prevention program of the U. S. Forest Service and Michigan Conservation department, adding the comment that if the fires are kept out, Nature will work 24 hours a day to restore the forests.

In walking a mile, a man takes about 2263 steps.

AUTO MAKING TO BE STUDIED

WPB May Present Plan
For Reconversion
Of Industry

Detroit, (AP)—Something resembling a specific program for the resumption of passenger automobile production may come out of the meeting this month the War Production Board's automotive branch and the industry advisory committee in Washington.

Detailed steps necessary to get back into car production without impairing the war effort probably will be outlined by the WPB. The exact date alone probably will be withheld pending further developments in the war in Europe.

Each of the manufacturers, on the other hand, will bring detailed information of the problems involved from their standpoint, including a statement of the minimum number of cars each could produce on an economical basis. Most industry leaders already have stated that a minimum overall output of 2,000,000 would be necessary if production costs and ultimate delivered-to-the-consumer cost are to be held within reasonable limits.

The meeting undoubtedly will be one of the most important in the preliminaries to reconversion which many of the manufacturers have said may prove more difficult than was the shift from peace to war time production in the spring and summer of 1942.
